Information has Value

2. Group Ideas into Overarching Concepts

1. Look at your neighbor
(this is now your partner)
2. Combine sticky notes
3. Batch similar sticky notes
4. Develop overarching concepts

Examples

Evaluation

- Publication cycle
- Evaluation process
- Peer review
- Types of sources (popular, scholarly, trade, etc.)

3. Draft Student Learning Outcomes

Scholarship as Conversation

- Mini research study with literature review
- Skill of using bibliographies to find additional sources
- Literature review practice

SLO

Students will... recognize that scholarship in a particular discipline is a conversation between peers within the discipline.

4. Use the Checklist

Students will recognize that scholarship in a particular discipline is a conversation between peers within the discipline.

Is this SLO measurable? If not, provide a revision for consideration.

Does this SLO focus uniquely on library research and our disciplinary expertise? (Consider if other programs, departments, or disciplines may be responsible for this content.)

Does this SLO push beyond teaching basic procedural content?

Is this SLO appropriate for a 100-level course?

What is the importance of this SLO? (high importance or low importance)

Could this SLO be reworded for clarity and focus? If so, provide revision for consideration.

5. Revise SLOs

Students will recognize that scholarship in a particular discipline is a conversation between peers within the discipline.

Students will be able to participate in scholarly discourse within a discipline or field of study.

Helpful
Tips

★ Make time for reflection & editing

★ Keep people on track

★ Don't dominate

★ Remember – it's your program!
